

Advertisement – Contractor for IWC Whale Watching Handbook

The International Whaling Commission is seeking a dynamic and experienced Contractor to assist with the development of the IWC's Whale Watching Handbook. The Contractor must be an excellent communicator with demonstrable experience of translating complex scientific information for a range of target audiences. S/he will have successfully generated and organised website content, and possess a good understanding of the visual dimension including page layout and imagery. S/he will have experience of working on issues relating to marine biodiversity, marine tourism and associated environmental issues. S/he will be fluent in English. Applications must be received by 18 April 2017.